SHARON SEFFENS, U.S. DISTRICT COURT REPORTER

1 SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA; FRIDAY, DECEMBER 21, 2012; 4:30 P.M.

2 THE COURT: Counsel, let me start off because I
3 started off inadvertently before. Here are some initial 4 feelings and concerns about Docket No. 84. Docket 84 is
5 Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment as to No
6 Infringement of Glidewell's Registered Trademark. Is that 7 correct? Why don't you check your docket numbers and make 8 certain.

9 MR. GRAVES: That's correct.

10 THE COURT: Tentatively, I'm prepared concerning
11 Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment as to no
12 infringement to grant that motion.

13 I think that the defendant has shown that the 14 plaintiff has failed to establish at least one element of 15 the trademark infringement, namely, that there is a 16 likelihood of confusion between the parties' marks.

17 The Court is well-aware that the Ninth Circuit
18 considers eight factors to determine the likelihood of 19 confusion between the parties' marks: (1) strength of the 20 plaintiff's mark; (2) proximity of the goods; (3) similarity
21 of the marks; (4) evidence of actual confusion; (5)
22 marketing channels used; (6) type of goods and the degree of 23 care likely to be exercised by the purchaser; (7)
24 defendant's intent in selecting the mark; and (8) likelihood 25 of expansion of the product lines.

SHARON SEFFENS, U.S. DISTRICT COURT REPORTER

1 declaration indicated that he will prescribe a full contour
2 zirconia crown such as BruxZir or a KDZ Bruxer regardless of 3 whether his patients suffer from bruxism.

4 So the purported tight link between these two 5 brands of a full contour zirconia crown and bruxism is 6 simply -- it's overly hyped by Keating. Yes, bruxism is one
7 indication or one pathology for which these full contour
8 zirconia crowns are indicated, but there are many others.
9 For some of these dentists, such as Dr. Cohen and Dr. Bell,
10 the vast majority of the uses don't involve bruxism at all.

11 Mr. Jankowski suggested his client is using Bruxer
12 in a descriptive capacity. However, that's belied by the 13 fact that Keating filed a trademark application on KDZ
14 Bruxer and alleged in its second amended answer and 15 counterclaim that it is using KDZ Bruxer as a trademark. In 16 order to constitute fair use, the mark must be used only, 17 solely, in a descriptive capacity. That's clearly not the 18 case here from Keating's own admissions.

19 Mr. Jankowski tells the Court that the dentists
20 from whom Glidewell submitted declarations and Dr. Goldstein
21 were all disclosed after the close of discovery. That's 22 simply factually incorrect. Discovery closed in this case
23 under the Court's scheduling order on October 29. All of 24 these dentists were identified in an amended disclosure on 25 October 29. Dr. Goldstein's expert report was provided on

SHARON SEFFENS, U.S. DISTRICT COURT REPORTER

1       October 29.

2                 Now, Your Honor, if present counsel had been 3 involved in the case, these witnesses very likely would have 4 been disclosed earlier than they were. However, the fact 5 remains that they were disclosed prior to the close of 6 discovery, and there was nothing in the scheduling order 7 requiring that expert reports be provided earlier than the 8 close of discovery. In fact, the scheduling order
9 specifically said all discovery, including expert discovery,
10 will close on the discovery cutoff, which was October 29.

11               So these witnesses were disclosed prior to the 12 close of discovery, and, in addition, Glidewell -- we -- I
13 offered to permit Keating's counsel to depose these people.
14 We offered to make Dr. Goldstein available for deposition.
15 We offered to make Dr. De Tolla available for another 16 deposition. We offered not to oppose any efforts that they 17 might make to take the depositions of the dentists that we 18 disclosed after the close of discovery. That offer was 19 rejected.

20               Rule 37(c) requires that in order for evidence to 21 be excluded it's not sufficient just that it be disclosed
22 after a discovery cutoff, which in this case it wasn't, but 23 there in addition must be a showing of prejudice. Here
24 there is no prejudice. Keating has articulated no 25 prejudice, and any prejudice that could possibly exist is

1       only from its effort to take tactical advantage of the date
2       of disclosure of these witnesses. The offer to permit them
3       to be deposed remains open. Keating could cure any 4       prejudice anytime it wanted.

5                  With respect to Ms. Fallon, there aren't two 6       versions. What happened is certain information regarding 7       Ms. Fallon's conversation with Ms. Carlyle of Dr. Lee's
8       office was disclosed in interrogatory responses. Ms. Fallon
9       was disclosed as a potential witness weeks, if not months,
10      prior to the close of discovery. Keating could have deposed 11     her. They chose not to. Subsequently, additional specific 12     factual detail was developed and was provided to Keating as 13     soon as it was developed. The two documents, Exhibits 1 and 14     2, were provided to Keating, produced to Keating, within one 15     day of when counsel obtained them. We made every effort as 16     soon as we got involved to produce as much information as we 17     possibly could regarding this case that had not already been 18     produced. Again, there was no prejudice here, none
19     whatsoever.

20                  Now, Mr. Jankowski -- it's notable regardless of 21       whether we are talking about 86 instances of confusion
22       reflected in the prescription forms or 57 different dentists
23       who were involved in those instances of confusion, that 24       Keating only submitted declarations from 13. Keating had 25       months in which to develop that evidence. Yet they could

David,

In Keating's Opposition to Glidewell's Ex Parte Application to Amend the Scheduling Order, Keating noted that Glidewell had served a set of First Amended Disclosures, a rebuttal report of Prof. Franklyn to the opening report of Dr. Eggleston, a rebuttal report of Prof. Franklyn to the rebuttal report of Boatwright, an expert report from Dr. Goldstein, and an expert disclosure from Dr. DiTolla, and characterized several of these disclosures as untimely. We do not agree, in light of the fact that all of these disclosures were provided prior to the close of discovery. In any event, we will make Prof. Franklyn, Dr. Goldstein and Dr. DiTolla available to be deposed regarding any subject matter contained in these reports, and will not oppose any depositions of witnesses newly-identified in Glidewell's First Amended Disclosures on the ground that the deposition was noticed or would take place following the close of discovery. In addition, we will not oppose any document discovery that Keating may wish to take as against those witnesses on the ground that the document request was served following the close of discovery. We believe that this proposal provides Keating with an opportunity to effectively and efficiently address any purported concerns that it may have regarding the "timeliness" of these disclosures, all of which were provided prior to the close of discovery.

Subject: RE: Glidewell Dental Ceramics v. Keating Dental Arts

Phil,

The expert disclosure document and amended initial disclosures that Snell & Wilmer emailed to us shortly before Midnight on October 29, 2012 (Discovery Cut Off) were untimely disclosures in violation of the Court's Scheduling Order, which set forth a deadline for the exchange of expert reports (opening reports were due on October 15, 2012 and rebuttal reports were due on October 22, 2012) and a deadline for initiating depositions (October 22, 2012). Keating does not accept Glidewell's offer to make certain witnesses available for deposition weeks after Discovery Cut Off, as doing so would violate the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the express direction of the Court through its Scheduling Order and denial of Glidewell's Ex Parte Application seeking to re-open discovery.

We further note that Glidewell produced more than 2,000 pages of documents on November 15, 2012, more than two weeks after Discovery Cut Off. As you surely can appreciate, we have not had an opportunity to review these documents. Given the untimely expert disclosures, the untimely amended disclosures, and now the large and untimely document production, Glidewell appears to be proceeding as if it had prevailed on its ex parte application. Keating reserves its right to move to strike and/or make evidentiary objections to any evidence not properly and timely produced by Glidewell during discovery. This includes, but is not limited to, evidence that Glidewell may offer in support of its proposed motions for summary judgment or in opposition to Keating's proposed motions for summary judgment.

-David
